St. Paul's

At 3:30 on a Thursday afternoon, the school seems very quiet, except for the distant sound of our after-school children in the Library. The quiet reminds me of how busy the school usually sounds (even noisy once in a while!) when the classrooms are filled with students and teachers busily working and playing, and how silent it is all summer long. This year our summer sessions will change all that!

This has been our fifth year at the "new" St. Paul's. I think it has been our best year yet. Talented students and teachers at their work of learning about themselves and their world, coming from homes of many different kinds, enjoying one another in study and play, growing up through good and difficult times -- that is what St. Paul's is all about.

A special word of congratulations to our sixth graders. We hope you have benefitted as much from being here as we have from having you all as part of our school family. We shall miss you, each and everyone of you with your special gifts, but hope you will come back to visit when you have a chance. Our best wishes for happiness and success go with you from all of us here!
